

HOT SPRINGS IS HAPPY UNDER SPRINGLIKE SKIES

Diversions Swing From Sleighting to Golfing on Links of April Green.

PANAMA HATS ARE SEEN

However, Winter Enjoyed While It Lasts, and Many Gay Parties Take Part in Tobogganing and Other Sports in Snow.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
HOT SPRINGS, VA., January 15.—In versions at Hot Springs this week have swung from sleighing, tobogganing and other winter sports to golfing on links of an April green under springlike skies. Swept away by a balmy south wind the five-inch snowfall disappeared overnight, the middle of the week, and with the thermometer at 56 as an encouragement, two Panama hats appeared, while visitors took to basking in the sun on the verandas, as they do in March and April.

Winter was enjoyed while it lasted, however, and among those to make the most of the winter sports were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McNeill, who, with their son, Joseph, and daughter, Miss Mary, left for the city on Monday. Mr. and Mrs. McNeill, who are of New York, all sleighed and tobogganed while the snow lasted, and Messrs. Dodge and Hartman took a sleigh-ride to Warm Springs one day, where they had a swim in the Warm Sulphur pool before their return. C. McLean Hartman went to Faxon Farm for a day's shooting, and returned with a dozen or more birds.

In the midst of the heaviest of the snowfall Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Rider, of New York, who spent their honeymoon here after their marriage in Baltimore, left by automobile for New York with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Albert, taking along shovels to use in case their car should be stalled in the snow. They made the trip without difficulty, however, topping en route in Staunton and Washington.

A romance which visitors had been watching with interest for a fortnight culminated this week in a wedding in which the principals were Mrs. Florence Preston Jones, of South Orange, sister of Professor Thomas Jex Preston, who married Mrs. Grover Cleveland, and Charles MacLean Bragg, of Washington, in the local office of New York brokers. The couple met here during the holidays, and the marriage, which occurred in the Warm Springs Courthouse, Rev. Charles Reed, pastor of the Warm Springs Presbyterian Church, officiating, was not made known to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, parents of the bride, who are with her here, until after the event, when they were told the news, over the telephone by W. Earl Dodge, and J. H. McCullough, of New York, who were in the wedding party. After a reception given them by Mrs. George Bragg at her place near here, the pair returned to the hotel, and are occupying the suite in the east wing occupied by President and Mrs. Wilson during their honeymoon here.

General E. A. Hart, who arrived from New York this week, and will here till the latter part of February, when he will leave for Hongkong, a trip he takes every winter.

Recent arrivals include Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Vandell, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Smith and Mrs. George Moore, of New York.

GREENSBORO

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
GREENSBORO, N. C., January 15.—The Y. M. C. Club met with Mrs. W. Holsbroun at her home on West Lee Street on Wednesday afternoon. Officers for next year were elected as follows: Mrs. R. C. Lee, president; Mrs. B. E. Campbell, vice-president; Mrs. Jasper Jennings, secretary; Mrs. C. W. Holsbroun, treasurer. Plans were outlined for the year's work, after which a salad course was served.

PAN-AMERICAN UNION WILL HONOR PRESIDENT

His Acceptance of Invitation to Hall Unique, Breaking Previous Unwritten Law.

WASHINGTON, January 15.—Arrangements for the ball which is to be given at the Pan-American Union building next Wednesday evening in honor of the President and Mrs. Wilson are in charge of Frederico M. Quintana, counselor and chargé d'affaires of the Argentine embassy.

Accompanying the invitations are pink cards, and in other cases white cards, the pink cards, which have been sent to members of the Supreme Court of the United States, the members of the cabinet and other distinguished persons, providing for entrance to the hall of the Americas at the Pan-American Union building, by the left-hand staircase, and the white cards, providing for entrance to the hall by way of the right-hand staircase. The cards read as follows:

You are requested to please take the staircase at the left or right, as the case may be, while, according to the ballroom after arrival. Doors will be closed punctually at 10:30 P. M. and opened after the dance for guests deciding to depart. The ball will continue for one hour after the departure of the President. Uniform or evening dress. You are requested to address an early answer to Special Secretary, Pan-American Union, Washington, D. C.

The invitations are not being sent to official or consular society generally, although all members of the diplomatic corps in Washington, including those from European countries, have been invited. A number of cards have been sent to distinguished persons in New York and other out-of-town places. All the members of the Senate are on the invitation list, but not all the members of the House of Representatives. It is understood, however, that the chairman of all the committees of the House are on the list.

The list also includes many of the bureau chiefs, especially those on duty in the State, War and Navy buildings, the higher officers of the army and navy on duty in Washington, all of the President's naval and military aids and the members of the families of these gentlemen. The invitation list, it is understood, also includes a number of members of residential society in Washington, among them those who entertained at the series of thirty-five or more private dinners in Washington during the two weeks of the Pan-American Scientific Congress. Assistance is being given in the issuance of the invitations and the preparation of the list by Charles Lee Cooke, of the State Department, who has had charge of many social events in which the government of the United States has been interested.

An elaborate supper is to be served and the Marine Band is to furnish music for dancing throughout the evening.

The entertainment will be unique in that it has not been the custom heretofore for the President of the United States to accept invitations outside of the cabinet circle. It has been an unwritten law during previous administrations that the only homes the President and his wife go to for any formal function are those of the members of the cabinet.

The result has been that the President has not met diplomats outside of his own home, and he has not gone to the government homes of the different nations, occupied by the ambassadors and ministers and charged so that next Wednesday night, when the President, mingling upon intimate terms with the Latin-American diplomats, in their home, the Pan-American Union Building, the occasion will be a departure, and this building is partly the home of the United States, also, the United States being a member of the union.

Probably not all of the European diplomats will attend the ball, as many of them will not wish to run into each other, so to speak, at a function of nearly 1,500 persons, which will be small in number compared to the size of the Pan-American Congress, but many of the European diplomats, including Count Celleri, the Italian ambassador, and others, accepted invitations to them for some of the receptions and other events held at the Pan-American Union Building during the Pan-American Scientific Congress.

Mr. and Mrs. William Balch, Charles Balch and Mrs. Hugh Shackelford of Strasburg, were Saturday visitors to Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fristoe.

Aids in Sports Carnival

This is one of the pretty girls of St. Paul who is aiding in the revival of the Old Winter Sports Carnival of the Northwest.

The entire city of St. Paul, as well as the Northwest in general, has been electrified by a revival of the old winter sports carnivals which were held here in 1884-7-8. Every Wednesday and Saturday one can now see hundreds of business men in the downtown section of the city wearing their marching club uniforms, the same as was done in the days of yore.

Snowshoeing, skiing, skating, curling, hockey and tobogganing are exceedingly popular in St. Paul this winter. The carnival itself will consist of a ten-days' celebration, beginning January 27, in which all of the cities of the Northwest have been invited. Fargo, Grand Forks, Duluth, Winnipeg and many other Northwestern cities will send marching club delegates to this carnival.

RADFORD NORMAL NOTES

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
RADFORD, VA., January 15.—On Sunday night, January 23, Richmond Pearson Hobson and Dr. Stearns, of New York, will deliver addresses in the normal auditorium. This meeting will be held under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

Dr. J. P. McConnell attended a meeting of the Virginia Normal School Board to prepare and lay before the normal schools of the State for the next two years. The pressing need of the normal school at this time is dormitory space. If the proper dormitory space were available the attendance at the school would be doubled.

Mission study courses, under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association, are being offered this quarter. These courses cover the various phases of missionary interest and endeavor. A large number of the leaders of the association have been at work for several months creating interest in the courses that are now being offered in missionary enterprises of various kinds, both home and foreign. Some of the courses offered deal with the foreign work and others with the home field.

Both the Pocahontas and Ingles Literary Society halls are being painted and beautified in a number of ways. Some very fine work in painting is being done on the walls and ceilings. Figures emblematic of the societies and their work are being painted.

Professor W. E. Gilbert delivered an address before the Civic League at Saltville on Friday night. The members of the normal school faculty assist in various ways in organizing school improvement leagues in many communities of the State. The recent Appalachian school improvement Foundation Bulletin contains some very helpful suggestions as to the organization of school improvement.

TO-DAY'S BEAUTY HINT

It is not necessary to shampoo quite so frequently if your hair is properly cleansed each time by use of a really good shampoo. The easiness to use and quickness of drying shampoo that we can recommend to our readers may be prepared very cheaply by dissolving a teaspoonful of anhydrous, obtained from your druggist, in a cup of hot water. This rubbed into the scalp creates a thick lather, soothing and cooling in its action, as well as very beneficial to scalp and hair. After rinsing, the scalp is fresh and clean, while the hair dries quickly and evenly, developing a bright luster and a soft suppleness that makes it seem very heavy.
